Health

The NHS provides services that everyone in the population can access. Due to the varying and often complex needs of children and young people with special needs and disabilities, it is possible that a range of health professionals will be involved with you and your child.

If you have concerns or questions about your child's health, talk to your doctor, health visitor or school nurse. They can help with a wide range of health issues and any concerns you might have about your child's development. They can also refer you to specialist health services depending on your child's needs. This includes for example physiotherapy, occupational therapy, speech and language therapy, child and adolescent mental health services, wheelchair services and children's community nursing.

On the local offer directory you can search for information on health services locally; it includes information on who the service is for, how to access the service and who to contact for more information.

Health professionals who may be involved in your / your child's healthcare include:

- Community paediatricians: A team of doctors who provide assessments for children where there are concerns about their development.
- Community children's nurses: A team of nurses who have experience of working with children with complex health needs. They often work with children at home or in school.
- Occupational Therapists: Work with children and young people to help them do things like writing, playing, sitting or dressing themselves.
- Physiotherapists: Work with children and young people to help them with things like sitting, moving and walking.
- Speech and Language Therapists: Provide support with communication difficulties, language impairment and speech disorders.
- Children and Adolescents Mental Health services (CAMHS): Provides mental health assessment and treatment for children, young people (aged 0-18) and their families.

Health professionals in Westminster coordinate their approach to supporting a young person with complex health needs through talking to one another, sharing information and jointly planning how to achieve the best outcomes. If your child is supported by a number of professionals from health, education and social care they will work together in a multi-agency team to make sure support is coordinated and appropriate.

what services are needed to help young people move towards independence in adulthood.

Every local authority must have a Local Offer that is available on the internet and must make sure that people without access to the internet can also see it. The local authority must tell children and young people and their families how they can find out more about the Local Offer.

The local authority will then decide what services to make available. Every local authority must get feedback on its Local Offer from young people and their families. They must show what feedback they have been given and say how they are going to make improvements to the Local Offer and services.

A Local Offer should also include information about what transport services are available for children and young people with special educational needs or disabilities and if there is any help available to pay for these services.

for both juniors (8-12) and seniors (13-19), running two nights of youth club provision a week. Within these sessions provide a range of activities including sports, cooking, arts and crafts and many more within these sessions. Many of the courses we do are accredited in some way too.

2) We also run a Traveller homework club two nights a week encouraging and supporting travellers to develop their numeracy and literacy skills.

3) We run holiday programmes during the school holidays for both juniors and seniors including workshops, projects and trips for the young people that are members of the club.

4) Work placements for young people from a variety of schools in London

5) On Wednesdays, 2-4pm, we offer a Working with Men service to ages 16+ years that need help trying to find a job.
